We all, my lords, have err'd.
Men may, I find, be honest though they differ.
—Thomson.

Don't be a Prohibition croaker.
Let a little practical sunshine into your soul.

Send vagrants home, though they have come and must go at Territorial expense.

Dirty, slovenly loafers are not wanted in Honolulu, whether Russians or any other nationality.

St. Paul has gone Republican.
Wasn't it a man by that name who saw a great light and changed his course?

Mr. Pond's argument may be that Prohibition will increase the consumption of buttermilk and thereby promote the small farm.

Don't forget that a trans-Pacific race is scheduled for this season and Hawaii's yacht is bound to win if sent out properly equipped.

Be as conservative as you like and knock Hawaii's future all you please, you can't prevent Honolulu from doubling in population in five years' time.

This annual tour of important fraternal officers to Honolulu is another proof that a steadily increasing number are coming to know that Hawaii is on the map.

Work on raising the Maine will begin in time to provide a topic for the summer silly season, in a discussion on whether the plates prove that the ship was blown up or naturally exploded.

It would be cheap at double the price to pay Atkinson five hundred dollars a month and Perelstous five dollars a head to take back to Harbin the lovely representatives of their brilliant immigration campaign.

Kings and Queens having run out to meet him at the station, there now remains one of two things for King Edward and Kaiser Wilhelm to do as a special honor for Roosevelt—put on the gloves or run a foot race.

Billy Mason, ex-Senator from Illinois, intimates that a great many United States Senators are elected by purchased votes. Perhaps Billy knows and perhaps he is seeking this means of again bringing himself into the limelight.

Certainty of the ships of the Pacific fleet remaining in these waters three months of the winter season ought to be enough to start the Honolulu croakers going full blast, for fear someone might place a speculative value on the growth of this city.

Forty-three Republicans being the total number of Senators who can be marshaled in the United States Senate to support the policies of the Administration, it must be admitted that there is a great difference of opinion on what real Republicanism is.

It was indeed true. The advance in the price of sugar frightened the sugar stock quotations into another blue funk. Presumably on account of an overwhelming fear that some of the plantations may make so much money they will not know what to do with it.

Defeat of the Federal prohibition scheme and the coastwise shipping law suspension proves that Congress each year is becoming better acquainted with the fact that this is an American Territory, and not a possession for which exceptions to American laws should be constantly provided. These victories for our straight American status are guarantees of stability.

"When it comes to the question of local legislation, no member of the Chamber of Commerce and no member of the Merchants' Association believes that it is possible, in the first place, to secure the enactment of a prohibition law for Hawaii in Hawaii."—Advertiser.

Holding such an opinion, a spiteful desire to raise a rumpus over something the people don't want must be at the bottom of the morning paper's present support of Prohibition.

PROHIBITION FREAK.

One of the freaks of the Prohibition campaign has come out early in the game.

The Hilo Tribune this week published a letter from a Hilo citizen, accompanied by an "endorsement" of Prohibition in Maine by the Governor of that State, Mr. Bert M. Fernald.

This "endorsement" consists of a letter from one C. E. Owen of Waterville, Maine, and then follows this alleged statement from the Governor of Maine:

"I am glad to endorse all Mr. Owen has written.

"Yours truly,
"BERT M. FERNALD,
"Gov. of Maine."

Someone has obviously edited this thing with an idea of possibly making it readable to the "I been go" population of Hawaii.

We have no doubt that Mr. Fernald endorses the Prohibition law of Maine when someone writes it for him, but we doubt that "he been endorse everything for which Mr. Owen he write him."

Bert Fernald, in his association with the hotel business of the State of Maine, knows what every other hotel man knows, that the Maine Prohibition law is a farce in so far as practical prohibition of the liquor traffic is concerned.

As Governor of the State he knows that the feeling among young Republicans of the State against the farce of Prohibition is the most serious threat that exists today against the continued power of the Republican party. Opposition to Prohibition was primarily at the bottom of the discontent that forced Senator Hale to withdraw his candidacy for the United States Senate after serving five consecutive terms.

If Bert Fernald could get Prohibition out of the road he would be more certain that the usual Republican Congressional delegation of his State will be returned this fall and his reelection as Governor by an increased majority assured.

One of the experts on the certainties of the oil business recently published the following statement on the chances of making fortunes in the oil business: "Because of the hazard, those engaged in the traffic demand, and must be paid, large profits where the transaction is complete. The high percentage of loss must be paid up for, otherwise there would be none to take the extraordinary risk. Under the law of averages, it is not wrong that $1000 should be allowed to grow into $1,000,000, when it so frequently happens that a million dwindles down to a thousand and disappears altogether. * * * Only a small fraction of the companies organized to produce oil is successful, and it sometimes happens that utter ignorance, however well intentioned, not only is the cause of loss of stockholders' money, but that contiguous leases and whole districts are damaged to the extent of millions of dollars."

ROOSEVELT FOR PEACE.

ed it peace when he has scourged honest protest into silence. Our words must be judged by our deeds; and in striving for a lofty ideal we must use practical methods; and if we can not attain all at one leap, we must advance towards it step by step, reasonably content so long as we do actually make some progress in the right direction.

"Now, having freely admitted the limitations to our work, and the qualifications to be borne in mind, I feel that I have the right to have my words taken seriously when I point out where, in my judgment, great advance can be made in the cause of international peace. I speak as a practical man, and whatever I now advocate I actually tried to do when I was for the time being the head of a great nation, and keenly jealous of its honor and interest. I ask other nations to do only what I should be glad to see my own nation do.

"The advance can be made along several lines. First of all there can be treaties of arbitration.

"Secondly, there is the further development of the Hague Tribunal, of the work of the conferences and courts at The Hague.

"In the third place, something should be done as soon as possible to check the growth of armaments, especially naval armaments, by international agreement.

"Finally, it would be a master stroke if those great powers honestly bent on peace would form a League of Peace, not only to keep the peace among themselves, but to prevent, by force if necessary, its being broken by others. The supreme difficulty in connection with developing the peace work of The Hague arises from the lack of any executive power, of any police power to enforce the decrees of the court.

"The combination might at first be only to secure peace within certain definite limits and certain definite

CAMPBELL CASE IS PROGRESSING

By the middle of next week the Campbell-Hackfeld case will probably be finished in Judge Robinson's court. Yesterday afternoon Captain Dabbs was put on the stand and his testimony was still being taken today. It is believed that the testimony of the skipper will be concluded this afternoon and Dr. Judd will be called tomorrow. Dr. Judd attended Campbell at the time of the accident and his testimony is some of the most important in the case.

SAM KAHU GETS ONE YEAR EXTRA JAIL

Sam Kahu, who escaped from the prison gang a couple of days ago, and who was recaptured yesterday afternoon by Turnkey Billy Woods, appeared in court this morning, and was sentenced to an extra year's jail by Judge Andrade. Sam pleaded guilty to leaving the gang without permission but begged of the judge to allow him a chance of leaving the country. There was nothing doing along that line, however, and Sam is also liable to have a charge of larceny laid

CRUISERS WILL SOON BE HERE

Cleveland and Chattanooga From Manila to Mare Island

Two United States cruisers, the Cleveland and the Chattanooga, are now en route from Manila, Philippine Islands, to Mare Island, California, and will call at Honolulu on the voyage to the homeland.

Rear Admiral Rees has been advised of the sailing of the two protected cruisers. According to his calculations, the war vessels should arrive at this port within the next two weeks. The vessels will remain at Honolulu for several days, as they will be given supplies and a quantity of coal. The cruisers are proceeding to the coast for a general overhauling.

The Cleveland, Commander Hugh Rodman, will go out of commission upon arrival at the coast. Commander J. D. McDonald is returning with the cruiser Chattanooga and this vessel proceeds to the navy yard at Bremerton, Washington, there to go out of commission. Both vessels are of 3100 tons and are supplied with ten guns.

QUARANTINE PAU NEXT SATURDAY

At the request of the Mexican government the local branch of the Federal quarantine service has been notified to continue with the examination of officers and crew and observe the usual formalities with regard to fumigation and the issuance of health certificates.

AFTER HAVING discharged a general cargo at Mahukona and other Hawaii ports, the American barkentine Irigard is reported to have sailed for San Francisco on Tuesday.

LUMBER FOR Honolulu is en route from Port Ludlow by the American schooner Camano. The vessel is reported to have sailed for the Hawaiian Islands on April 22.

WITH MERCHANDISE destined for Mahukona, the American barkentine S. G. Wilder is reported to have sailed from San Francisco yesterday.

Cablegram

A cablegram received this morning informing me that all installment acreage of No. 4 was sold; a small amount of the cash acreage of No. 4 left at $400 per acre.

I am authorized to place Series No. 5 on this market at $450 for the present, this Series to be known as

The "Hawaiian Series"

An investment in the Acreage of the Castilloa Rubber Plantation Co. will return to the investors from the first harvest on increasing dividends larger than can be obtained from any other investment of a stable character.

On Cash acreage we pay 5 per cent. per annum semi-annually, hence giving the investor a gilt-edged investment.

To Capitalists or persons in moderate circumstances who would buy on the installment plan, we would recommend an IMMEDIATE investigation of our proposition before the No. 5 Series is gone and No. 6 placed on the market at a still higher price. "TIME AND TIDE WAITS FOR NO MAN." One good investment is worth a life time of labor.

For full particulars call at our office, or write for literature on our proposition, which will be mailed at once.

EVENING SMILES

A young girl and her mother came to this country to seek employment. The mother decided that she would learn the English language first and then teach her daughter. She found that the following questions were asked nearly every time: "Your age?" "How long employed?" "Can you wash dishes and peel potatoes?"

So she thought it was only necessary that her daughter should only learn the answers. She taught her to say the following words in rotation: "Seventeen years," "three months" and "both."

The first place the daughter sought work the lady who answered her timid rap asked her what she wished. "Seventeen years," she answered. "Oh, you wish work? How old are you?"

"Three months."

The lady exclaimed, "Three months! Are you crazy, or am I?"

"Both," the girl replied.

A young lady at a summer hotel asked an artist friend, who was spending his vacation there, if he would mind doing a small favor for her. "Certainly not," he said eagerly. "What is it?"

"Thank you so much," she exclaimed gratefully. "I wish you would stop at Mrs. Grannon's little shop and get three large bone buttons, the kind with two small holes in them. They're for my new bathing suit, you know. Just tell her who I am and it will be all right. You needn't pay for them."

"Now the artist was a bachelor, and had never bought anything but collar buttons before. So on the way to the store he kept repeating the instructions that he had received. Eager to relieve his mind he rushed up to Mrs. Grannon's and reeled off this surprising speech: "I want three bone buttons for a small bathing suit with two large holes in it. Just tell me who I am and it will be all right."

An Irish street car conductor called out to the passengers standing in the aisle: "Will thim in front please to move up, so that thim behind can take the places of thim in front, and lave room for thim who are nayther in front or behind?"
